In movements I., II. and V. the players are asked to prepare their guitars by inserting a stick in between the fretboard and strings at a certain position (given in text boxes).

The diameter of the stick should be around 1 to 1,5 cm and the stick should be made out of wood. A regular pencil won't suffice but a thicker pencil or custom made wooden stick can be used. The required thickness depends on the guitar model and depth of strings. In any case, it's good to have a pointed end, since it can be inserted more easily.

The notation used for prepared tones can be seen on the left side of this page. All microtones are approximations and the final sounding result depends on the guitar model and stick used for preparing the guitar.

Regular noteheads:

Play the guitar as you'd play free strings ordinarily. String numbers indicate on which string to play.

Regular notehead and triangle notehead above it (below on fret XIX):

Play on the nut-side of the stick. Two separate notes should sound – one from the nut-side portion of the string and another from the bridge-side portion of the string. String numbers indicate on which string to play.

Triangle notehead only:

Play on the nut-side of the stick while dampening the strings on the bridge-side of string so that only the portion of string on the nut-side of the stick will sound.

- Quite agile switches between different playing techniques are required in the piece. It may be beneficial to think about adjustments to the position of the guitar in movements I., II. and V.!
- The players are also asked to play harmonics on the prepared strings. All harmonics played on the prepared strings are octave harmonics and should be found quite easily.

P E R F O R M A N C E I N S T R U C T I O N S

N O T A T I O N

tasto – play over the fingerboard for a slightly softer sound pont. or sul pont. – play near the bridge, preferably almost on top of it to produce a very tense and metallic sound

ord. – cancels any special playing technique or position

Unstress and stress symbols – used in cases where the phrasing and punctuation of the music don't coincide with the metre and notated time signature. The use of these symbols can create an effect of multiple time signatures on top of each other or otherwise guide the performance.

Crescendo from nothing (niente), diminuendo to nothing notated respectively.

Wide vibrato

Dampen the strings.

A line through the stems indicates that the figure notated with grace-note-sized notes should be played as fast as possible, starting at the position of the normal-sized notehead.

Let vibrate -symbol. Let the note ring for as long as possible.

(3+3+4)

Groupings of time signatures are written in bold text above the time signatures.

① ② ③ ④ ⑤ ⑥

String numbers indicate from which string the note should be played.

No fingerings other than 0 to indicate free strings are used.

Other special techniques are indicated with slashes and are further explained in the score.

Before playing the quarter-tone, bend the string from which you'll play the last note to produce the quarter-tone. Return to regular position slightly after plucking the bended note.

ord. → nut-side

Regular arrows indicate a gradual change from one playing technique to another.

Two arrows in the end of a line indicate that a change continues onto another system.

All staccato notes should be the same length.

All harmonics are notated at sounding pitches.

All grace notes are to be played before the note they're attached to and as fast as possible.

In some cases, the speed of arpeggiating a chord is specified with the words "slow" or "fast".

In many passages, only 1 voice is notated. You can, however, let notes ring for longer than notated in many cases according to your own judgement, if it fits the mood and is possible position-wise.

In the last movement, the second and third guitars are asked to tune all their strings up or down. The tuning can be anywhere between regular and $\pm 25\text{¢}$ from it – other possibilities can be explored too, if it pleases the performers. The produced harmonies should, however, always sound "out of tune".
